To whom it may concern,

I have been mentoring Tyler Davis for the past year with great pleasure.

Tyler is determined to learn every day and has focused his sights on learning about filmmaking. This past year we have talked all about the filmmaking process, areas where his current expertise will be convertible and areas he needs to learn about and what practical experience he needs to acquire. He has recently been enrolled in the UCLA extension Producing Certificate program.

Tyler is bright, energetic, willing to do the work and diligent in its execution. He embodies the Amazon leadership principle of "Learn and be Curious". I believe he will extract every possible ounce of knowledge and experience from the Media Mentorship Program.

Additionally, Tyler will benefit his cohorts. He is generous and gregarious. He will bring with him his Amazon experience which includes an unusual amount of practice debating and building ideas as a team.

I highly recommend you accept Tyler into your program, he will make the absolute most of it and be a wonderful addition to any production team.

Sincerely,
